When Breedlove was first founded in 1990, our instruments reflected an innovative approach to design, craftsmanship, and sound. These three distinct attributes have always been at the heart of the Breedlove culture. After nearly a quarter century building remarkable stringed instruments, we've done some serious reflecting and have confirmed our crystal-clear focus around what we do best. We've continued to push the boundaries of what's possible and are challenging convention more than ever before. 2015 marks a significant milestone for Breedlove – we are crafting instruments of tomorrow by celebrating what is true to Breedlove today: Distinctively Crafted Sound.

With distinctively crafted sound as our guiding principle, we put the needs and desires of the player first, and successfully translated the most sought-after sounds, the most popular playing styles, and the most desired aesthetics into the individual instruments of the 2015 line. Every instrument is built with a purpose – a reason for being – and each one produces a unique sound meant to delight and inspire in very specific ways.

In the coming pages, we invite you to open your heart and let your imagination run free as you discover the distinctively crafted sound that's just right for your style, preference, and price point. And our Custom Sound Studio is always available to you, where – with the help of our master luthiers – you can design your own personal signature sound. Time to dive in, dream, and join a tribe of devotees, visionaries, and early adopters who think differently.

With love,

Kim Breedlove, Master Luthier

25 YEARS

— of —
TRUE DISTINCTION

We call it Distinctively Crafted Sound.

In 1994, Kim Breedlove joined his brother Larry and added the artist craft of distinctive aesthetics and intricate inlay, resulting in Breedlove instruments being sought after for their beauty as well as their sound.

OREGON SERIES INSTRUMENTS

Three surprising and exciting Breedlove models crafted from Northwest body woods, the Oregon series guitars are wonderfully alive with tone. When musicians play these instruments, the first word out of their mouths is usually, “Wow.” Something magical happens when the locally sourced tonewoods come together – myrtlewood, Sitka spruce, and maple – and as a result, these models easily hold their own against guitars commanding three times the price. Myrtlewood provides more lows and midrange than maple and more highs than mahogany and rosewood, making it a favorite non-traditional tonewood. Breedlove has been using myrtle as a tonewood for over two decades with great success. A remarkable value, these solid-wood guitars are 100% handcrafted in the U.S.A. by the same workshop that builds Breedlove’s most exclusive instruments. They have the quintessential Breedlove sound with terrific additional punch, and feature unique premium design elements, including the asymmetrical headstock and pinless bridge.

SOLO SERIES INSTRUMENTS

If you’ve ever tried to write a song in a noisy room or on a rambunctious tour bus, you know how hard it can be to really hear your own guitar. Ideal for singer-songwriters, the Solo Series models have a side sound hole monitor to allow you to hear your music as if you were standing in front of the instrument. It’s a pretty amazing innovation, since the Solo models offer the same volume and distinctively crafted sound you’d expect from a Breedlove – the sound hole doesn’t diminish the power or tone of the instrument, it simply allows you to hear every nuance of your performance as your audience hears it.

DISCOVERY SERIES INSTRUMENTS

The difference between trying to learn to play guitar, and actually learning is often found in the guitar itself. Ask any guitar teacher: If your guitar is hard to play and doesn't excite you, you'll be less likely practice, and if you don't practice, you won't improve. The Discovery models are exceptionally well-designed and easy to play, and were created specifically to support newcomers to the instrument. With many of the features found in higher-end models – like a radiused fretboard, slimmer neck profile, and pinless bridge – Breedlove puts great care into the Discovery models to ensure that you get Breedlove's distinctively crafted sound and Breedlove innovation in your first instrument. The Discovery models will inspire you to dabble, to dream, and to explore the guitar in a way that most entry-level models simply can't.
